Welcome to E4TT's annual commissions concert and our second virtual program in 2021, "The Cassandra Project: Women's Prophetic Voices."

At a time when it has become crystal clear how often women’s voices are stifled and ignored—and how much they should be heeded—the mythical Greek prophetess Cassandra has seldom been more relevant. Which is why E4TT has chosen to base its 2021 commissions concert on her. Cassandra’s most famous prophecy, the one that has echoed through the centuries, was her devastatingly accurate vision of the Fall of Troy. And although an accurate seer, she was cursed never to be believed, a curse that in many tellings of the myth, came from her refusing to yield to the god Apollo’s desires.

Through the ages, Cassandra has become an archetype, a symbol of women’s rebellion against patriarchal power and their warnings against war. Her visions were said to have driven her mad, and her fate after Troy fell was ugly.

Ancient history? Yes. Mythical? Certainly. Relevant and of these times? Definitely.

We’re thrilled to have guests violinist Ilana Blumberg and cellist Abigail Monroe join us again for this program, which includes two new pieces with visuals, produced by David Garner and filmed by videographer MisterWa: a music video presentation of Garner’s "Die geflüsterte Zukunft" (The Whispered Future); Jessica Rudman's "Cassandra, or Don’t Girls Love Houses?" to images by Stephen Stokes, designed and projected by Brennan Stokes. Before the concert, we’re honored to have Hannah Lash, Mary Kouyoumdjian, Valerie Liu, Jessica Rudman, Kendra Preston Leonard and David Garner join us via Zoom for a pre-concert panel/Q&A. The concert will be streamed on YouTube; we hope you’ll join us in the YouTube chat during the program and afterwards back on Zoom.

We’re grateful that all the musicians were able to be vaccinated before recording this program. Our heartfelt gratitude to the San Francisco Arts Commission—without whose support we could not have brought you this program—as well as to the Ross McKee Foundation, the Alice M. Ditson Fund of Columbia University, The Producer’s Loft Studio, and to all of you, our wonderful fans and supporters.

Thank you for joining us online, stay safe, and be well!

Cassandra VI, VII, and IIX
by Friedrich Schiller

Und sie schelten meine Klagen,
Und sie höhnen meinen Schmerz,
Einsam in die Wüste tragen
Muß ich mein gequältes Herz,
Von den Glücklichen gemieden
Schweres hast du mir beschieden, Pythischer, du arger Gott!

Dein Orakel zu verkünden,
Warum warfest du mich hin
In die Stadt der ewig Blinden
Mit dem aufgeschloßnen Sinn?
Warum gabst du mir zu sehen,
Das Verhängte muß geschehen,
Das Gefürchtete muß nahn.

Frommts, den Schleier aufzuheben,
Wo das nahe Schrecknis droht?
Nur der Irrtum ist das Leben,
Und das Wissen ist der Tod.
Nimm, o nimm die traurge Klarheit,
Mir vom Aug den blutgen Schein, Schrecklich ist es, deiner WahrheitSterbliches Gefäß zu sein.

Cassandra VI, VII, and IIX
Translation by David Garner

And they rebuke my complaints
And they mock my pain,
Alone in the wasteland
must I carry my tormented heart, Shunned by the fortunate
And a mockery to the happy!
You have chosen to burden me,
Apollo, you wrathful God!

To proclaim your oracle,
Why did you cast me here
In the city of the eternally blind
With my senses exposed?
Why did you give me to see
What I certainly cannot change?
What is fated must happen.
What is feared must approach.

Is it righteous to lift the veil
Where the advancing horror threatens?
Life is only a mistake,
And death knowledge.
Take, oh take the tragic clarity,
The bloody shine from my eyes,
It is terrible to be the Mortal vessel of your truth.
Don’t Girls Love Horses?
by Kendra Preston Leonard

I was a girl in Troy, and like so many girls,
I loved horses.

A pony from Thessaly
was my darling,
and the one who had a star on her nose;
and the one I rode the day before I was cursed was gentle and swift on the plains.

When I was a girl
I rode on the horses that the King my father owned.
They were meant for racing and acrobatics in the hippodrome, but I rode my horses away from the men and their spears, and their catalogues of ships.

And for the days when the wind from the sea was cold
I stayed in the stables
where I brushed all the horses and I braided their manes.
I stayed with the horses.
I stayed.

I was a girl in Troy, and like so many girls,
I loved horses.
Now I am my city’s most famous mad woman, and I love horses—

But that beautiful mountainous wooden horse
I can see right now, outside our gates—
Friends,
I do not love that horse.

I have warned you and warned you,
but you think my dreams
are those of a girl,
just a girl
who loves horses.

Please listen,
please hear:
I have seen horses
in my dreams
where I dream of smoke and fire and that is the horse that I saw in my sleep
when I dreamed of the fall of Troy.

Didn’t I tell you? You called me mad you said
what is wrong with you don’t girls love horses?

This wooden horse brings men who reek of heat and flesh
and the spears I have long avoided;
this horse is a ship for land and siege,
that races in funeral games.
This horse will not run with me down to the bay in the fresh spring grass, around the track or out through the gate;
this horse is not a horse for escaping.

I saw this horse and its fir-tree flanks and its body covered with skins; oh
I foresaw it,
I foretold it,

and you laughed—
and you said

you are mad don’t girls love horses?

This horse, why a horse, oh for Troy loves its horses, but my friends this horse has no teeth but swords and this horse will eat our hearts as we run run, run.

Heed me now, mark this danger.
Do not let us stable this horse, say the stables are full, send it away;
it will kick and bite and throw us under its giant rolling hooves;

no foals rest within its womb but a host of men all armed and there in the heights is the priest felled by the altar

where now the bull runs free, the priest with serpents knotted at his arms
as he shouts—
as I have said—
don’t trust the horse do not

Trojans, if you love your horses now, ride away from this one;
bring me my mare
sure-footed and blazed—

no, no—
give her to this girl by my side,
this girl, this girl who loves horses,
so that she can flee.
I will not escape:

I have dreamt that too,
in a wretched curl of sleep.

Let me tell you
once more,
I beg you
to believe me:

In the dark body
of the wooden horse,
in the belly of this mighty horse
we will find the men I have seen:
fourty men there and two in its eyes

bringing no gift

but death and fate

death and fate and death and fate and death:

and fate
and death and fate.

Yet you keep asking
don’t girls love horses?
E4TT composer and founding member DAVID GARNER (b. 1954) won The American Prize in 2015 for his String Quartet No. 2. A semifinalist for The American Prize in Chamber Music in 2020, Alameda resident VALERIE LIU received the 2019 Ruth Crawford Seeger Award from the Alba Foundation. Drawing from an eclectic range of influence, her compositions are inspired by her strong connection to the natural world, art work, and ancient cultures. experiences gained from her mentor Henry Jen. A San Francisco Conservatory graduate, Liu received special mention at the Maurice Ravel International Composition Competition and honorable mention at the IAWM New Music Competition. Her works have been performed by the Arditti Quartet, the International Contemporary Ensemble, Hartford Opera Theater, and others. ABOUT ENSEMBLE FOR THESE TIMES

Awarded second place in 2019 for Chamber Music Performance by The American Prize and 2019 Finalists for the Ernest Bacon Memorial Award for the Performance of American Music, E4TT consists of award-winning soprano and Artistic Executive Director Nanette McGuinness, cellist Anne Lerner, season guest pianist Margaret Halbig, and Artistic Advisor and 2015 American Prize-winning composer David Garner. The group focuses on 20th and 21st century music that is relevant, engaging, original and compelling—music that resonates with today and speaks to tomorrow, that harnesses the power of artistic beauty, intelligence, wit, lyricism, and irony to create a deep understanding of our times and the human condition. E4TT performed at the 2016 Krakow Culture Festival, at the Conservatorio Teresa Berganza in Madrid in 2017, was sponsored by the U.S. Embassy in Budapest in 2014 for a four-city tour in Hungary, and made its international debut in Berlin. E4TT has performed locally at the German Consulate General, the San Francisco Conservatory of Music, Old First Concerts, JCC Peninsula, Trinity Chamber Concerts, and Noontime Concerts, among other venues, and has commissioned 25 works and two arrangements.

E4TT’s critically acclaimed debut CD, Surviving: Women’s Words (Centaur, 2016) won a Silver Medal in the 2016 Global Music Award and was reviewed as “fascinating,” “passionate,” “deeply moving” and “compelling.” Lesley Mitchell Clarke (The Whole Note) wrote, “Now more than ever, as the U.S. experiences a déjà vu of hatred and is poised on the brink of societal unravelling, the potent and timeless messages of survival, love, tolerance and forgiveness contained on this brilliant presentation need to resonate throughout the world.” The group’s second CD, The Hungarians: From Rózsa to Justus (Centaur, 2018) won a Gold Medal in the 2018 Global Music Awards. E4TT released its third CD, Once/Memory/Night: Paul Celan, in June 2020; the recording won a Silver Medal in the Global Music Awards and was chosen as the Center for New Music’s Album of the Week for the week of July 17. In choosing it, curator Kurt Rohde wrote, “The members of Ensemble For These Times are longstanding, expert champions of forgotten work by those nearly lost to history, as well as bringing up new voices who have meaningful new work to share. Their newest recording is further evidence of this mission.” The CD was reviewed as "gripping," and "constantly stimulating and engaging" (Textura.org) as well as “skillful,” “moving,” “chilling,” and “effective (Jason Victor Serenius, SFCV.org). Raul Da Gama (The Whole Note) called the CD "breathtaking" and "extraordinary," writing that “This recording features almost an hour of poetry echoing with heart-aching emotion delivered in a kind of near-spiritual quietude.”
